

The power of the Israel Lobby is so great that former president Jimmy Carter was prompted to say that no politician dared to oppose its demands, because to do so would be "political suicide."

How do the Jews do it? They can do it because they are rich, they are organized, and they have the power to suppress criticism through their control of the American media. The Israel First lobby wields both the carrot of money and the stick of stigma.

n They Dare To Speak Out, the Illinois congressman, whom the Jews went all out to defeat in 1982 because he refused to take orders from Israel, reveals the shocking details of Jewish power to suppress news and to control policy in America, and their arrogance in using that power. This book will enrage every reader who has even a shred of genuine patriotism.
